INTRODUCING THE HOMINY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Hominy is a community built on strong roots, local pride, and people who care deeply about its future.

To help support and grow that future, we are excited to announce the revitalization of the Hominy Chamber of Commerce.

A small-town Chamber plays a powerful role. It brings businesses together, strengthens communication, and creates opportunities for growth. By supporting local entrepreneurs, promoting tourism, and encouraging community events, the Chamber helps keep our economy vibrant and resilient.

Just as importantly, a Chamber serves as a unified voice—advocating for local needs, connecting resources, and helping ideas turn into action. From beautification projects to marketing our unique history and culture, even small efforts can have a lasting impact.

The Hominy Chamber of Commerce is about working together—businesses, residents, and community leaders—to build on what makes our town special and ensure a strong future for generations to come.

We invite everyone to be a part of it.

Remembering Cha` Tullis: A Legacy That Shaped Hominy

Hominy recently lost a remarkable businessman and a true pillar of our community.

Cha` Tullis, a Blackfoot Native, was many things—an artist, jeweler, sculptor, gallery owner, husband, father, and a man of deep faith. Through his work and his vision, he helped transform Hominy.

For more than four decades, Cha` worked from the historic White's Jewelry Store on Main Street, where he established the Cha` Tullis Gallery. His distinctive Native American artwork drew visitors and collectors from across the country, strengthening Hominy's economy and enhancing its reputation as a destination for art and culture.

Cha's impact reached far beyond his gallery. Deeply committed to his hometown, he sought ways to showcase Hominy's unique identity.
